Subject:     Announcement of Sue Antonoplos

I am pleased to announce that Sue Antonoplos will be returning to the Human Resources team in the new position of Director, Retail Human Resources Business Services, reporting to me. Sue comes to HR from the Risk Management department, most recently in the position of Director, Risk Management Operations, where she was the moving force behind the development and implementation of the Culture of Safety programs in retail which resulted in lower liability and workers' compensation claims and significantly improved the employee experience with safety. Sue started her Safeway career in the NorCal division HR training department, and also worked in corporate HR on retail training and development programs.

Sue will be working closely with me, as well as with corporate and retail division HR teams, to drive more effective collaboration, program implementation, best practices identification, and analyses of our opportunities to enhance the effectiveness of HR and continue to build upon our accomplishments as HR business partners. She will be located in the office next to me in Building F, and will be officially onboard as of September 3, 2012.

Please welcome Sue back to HR!
